

“Bible and Race”

A Presbytery-wide Bible study

God loves everyone. We know prejudice based on race is wrong. Yet, as issues around race have been politicized, many of our congregations are reflecting on how to discuss race and loving our neighbors in our 21st century highly anxious American society. Presbytery is sponsoring a Bible study led by various pastors to engage scriptures related to race and spiritual practices.

What?

- “The Bible and Race”

When

- Tuesdays from 6:30-7:30

How

- Zoom only

Schedule

- January 16: Rev. Bruce Humphrey, retired: "Vision of God's Kingdom with every tribe tongue nation Revelation 7"
- January 23: Rev. Gene Gordon, Capital Presbyterian: "Myth of separate races as a human construct, Acts 17"
- January 30: Rev. Stephen Melton, Big Spring Presbyterian: "Lamenting past misbehaviors as a Spiritual Practice, Matthew 5"
- February 6: Rev. Allison Smith, Market Square Presbyterian: "Confession of failures for healing, Luke 15"
- February 13: Rev. Nancy Conklin, Camp Hill Presbyterian: "Forgiveness is good for everyone, Matthew 6"
- February 20: Rev. Jeff Gibelius, Second Presbyterian Carlisle: "Repentance means tearing down walls of distrust, Matthew 3"
- February 27: Rev. Caroline Vickery, Waynesboro: "Endurance rather than growing weary, Hebrews 12"
- March 5: Rev. Kristal Smith, Presbytery Leader for Governance: "Prayer as Spiritual Warfare, Ephesians 6"
- March 12: Rev. Heather Sigler, Pine Street, retired: "Love as the Ultimate Goal of God's Kingdom, 1 Corinthians 13"
- March 19: Kevin Burrell, Chair Market Square Anti-racism Committee, "Epilogue, Thy Will Be Done on Earth"

“Bible and Race”

A Presbytery-wide Bible study

God loves everyone. We know prejudice based on race is wrong. Yet, as issues around race have been politicized, many of our congregations are reflecting on how to discuss race and loving our neighbors in our 21st century highly anxious American society. Presbytery is sponsoring a Bible study led by various pastors to engage scriptures related to race and spiritual practices.

What?

- “The Bible and Race”

When

- Tuesdays from 6:30-7:30

How

- Zoom only

Schedule

- January 16: Rev. Bruce Humphrey, retired: "Vision of God's Kingdom with every tribe tongue nation Revelation 7"
- January 23: Rev. Gene Gordon, Capital Presbyterian: "Myth of separate races as a human construct, Acts 17"
- January 30: Rev. Stephen Melton, Big Spring Presbyterian: "Lamenting past misbehaviors as a Spiritual Practice, Matthew 5"
- February 6: Rev. Allison Smith, Market Square Presbyterian: "Confession of failures for healing, Luke 15"
- February 13: Rev. Nancy Conklin, Camp Hill Presbyterian: "Forgiveness is good for everyone, Matthew 6"
- February 20: Rev. Jeff Gibelius, Second Presbyterian Carlisle: "Repentance means tearing down walls of distrust, Matthew 3"
- February 27: Rev. Caroline Vickery, Waynesboro: "Endurance rather than growing weary, Hebrews 12"
- March 5: Rev. Kristal Smith, Presbytery Leader for Governance: "Prayer as Spiritual Warfare, Ephesians 6"
- March 12: Rev. Heather Sigler, Pine Street, retired: "Love as the Ultimate Goal of God's Kingdom, 1 Corinthians 13"
- March 19: Kevin Burrell, Chair Market Square Anti-racism Committee, "Epilogue, Thy Will Be Done on Earth"

“Bible and Race”

A Presbytery-wide Bible study

God loves everyone. We know prejudice based on race is wrong. Yet, as issues around race have been politicized, many of our congregations are reflecting on how to discuss race and loving our neighbors in our 21st century highly anxious American society. Presbytery is sponsoring a Bible study led by various pastors to engage scriptures related to race and spiritual practices.

What?

- “The Bible and Race”

When

- Tuesdays from 6:30-7:30

How

- Zoom only

Schedule

- January 16: Rev. Bruce Humphrey, retired: "Vision of God's Kingdom with every tribe tongue nation Revelation 7"
- January 23: Rev. Gene Gordon, Capital Presbyterian: "Myth of separate races as a human construct, Acts 17"
- January 30: Rev. Stephen Melton, Big Spring Presbyterian: "Lamenting past misbehaviors as a Spiritual Practice, Matthew 5"
- February 6: Rev. Allison Smith, Market Square Presbyterian: "Confession of failures for healing, Luke 15"
- February 13: Rev. Nancy Conklin, Camp Hill Presbyterian: "Forgiveness is good for everyone, Matthew 6"
- February 20: Rev. Jeff Gibelius, Second Presbyterian Carlisle: "Repentance means tearing down walls of distrust, Matthew 3"
- February 27: Rev. Caroline Vickery, Waynesboro: "Endurance rather than growing weary, Hebrews 12"
- March 5: Rev. Kristal Smith, Presbytery Leader for Governance: "Prayer as Spiritual Warfare, Ephesians 6"
- March 12: Rev. Heather Sigler, Pine Street, retired: "Love as the Ultimate Goal of God's Kingdom, 1 Corinthians 13"
- March 19: Kevin Burrell, Chair Market Square Anti-racism Committee, "Epilogue, Thy Will Be Done on Earth"